Mr Darren Flick LL.B (Hons)
Solicitor-Advocate
Director

Darren is a founding Director of Darton Law and is passionate about providing a comprehensive and professional service to every client. When dealing with clients Darren's approach has always been to obtain a full understanding of their case and make sure they feel comfortable that every avenue has been explored. It is important they get a full professional service.

Motoring Law

Darren has been a Criminal Defence Lawyer for many years representing clients in both the Magistrates and the Crown Court in relation to a wide variety of motoring offences. Representing somebody for allegations in relation to their driving involves a full understanding of every aspect of Criminal litigation. Darren is particularly good at considering the finer details of a case and is meticulous in his preparation of witness statements, letters to the Court and representations to the Crown Prosecution Service. In most cases, he has been successful in persuading the Court or the Crown to accept his client's mitigating circumstances or withdraw the charges completely.

Motoring offences carry a variety of punishments if a person is found guilty which can have a devastating result as the result can mean a person losing their license. Darren is fully aware of these consequences and can listen to his clients' needs when preparing a case. He is pragmatic about the way forward when it comes to challenging the evidence being placed before the Court.

Over his career, Darren has represented people in the full spectrum of motoring offences including death by dangerous driving, speeding offences, driving otherwise than in accordance with a license, drink & drug driving and many other offences under The Road Traffic Act.

Crown Court Advocacy

Darren Flick is a Solicitor Advocate (all proceedings) meaning he can represent people in all Courts in England and Wales whether in criminal or civil proceedings. His Practice includes both Criminal and Civil Litigation. Qualifying in 2005, he has had the opportunity of preparing and presenting a wide variety of cases in both Criminal and Civil Litigation.

Since 2007 Darren has been representing clients in Crown Courts as an Advocate. He has had the opportunity of conducting numerous jury trials. In every case, he takes the time to take detailed instructions and prepares carefully every aspect of the case. Darren sees his role as working very closely with his clients to obtain the best result. If someone pleads guilty or is found guilty, he works hard to mitigate their circumstances and applies the relevant sentencing guidelines to achieve the lowest possible sentence.

Police Station and Magistrates

Darren regularly attends Police Station and the Magistrates Courts and conducts trials in the Crown Court. He can offer a cradle to grave service by representing people at the police station and through the Magistrates Court and ultimately the Crown Court. This has the inevitable benefit of providing a full service to Darton Law's clients allowing them to have confidence that they will be represented by somebody who knows their case fully.

Civil Litigation

In addition to Criminal Litigation, Darren also represents clients in civil matters from High Court injunctions to County Court money claims. Darton Law offer, in most cases, a fixed fee service. Darren will guide you through each stage of civil litigation and advise you comprehensively on the options as both a Claimant and a Defendant. It is sometimes very daunting when being taken to Court and Darren will be able to provide representation to put you at ease. When considering taking someone to Court as a Claimant, Darren will be able to provide you sound advice on the merits of your potential claim before embarking on civil proceedings.

Notable Cases

R v C

Historic Sexual Assault.

This case involved an allegation of historic sexual assault dating back to the 1970s. The critical evidence in the case related to the identity of the defendant and the description given by the alleged Complainant. This involved the scrutiny of the accounts given by the complainants and investigation into various records held by the local Council and Education Authorities to put together a comprehensive defence. Further investigations included site visits and plans and tracing witnesses through video footage and pictorial evidence. Darren represented this client at a full trial and the result ended in the client's acquittal on all counts.

R v I

Murder

Darren was represented the defendant as solicitor preparing his case. This involved a three-handed murder allegation in which our client was 16 years old. The descriptions given by witnesses heavily relied on one specific piece of clothing. After careful consideration of over 100 hours of CCTV, Darren identify a timeline of events which when taken with other evidence proved that the client was unable to be in the location of the murder at the time it occurred. Following the presentation of this evidence to the Crown Prosecution Service, they withdrew the charge and offered no evidence. The case continued against the remaining defendants who were found guilty.

Personal Interests

When not working at Darton Law, Darren is actively involved in local community theatre. He appears on stage and enjoys performing in musicals and plays. To keep fit, Darren regularly runs and has completed more than 20 marathons. He enjoys seeing friends and family and spending time with his wife and son.
